Since 1986, GEMTEC has grown from a small New Brunswick geotechnical engineering, materials testing, and environmental engineering firm into a leading multidisciplinary company with offices and CCIL-certified laboratories in Ontario, Quebec, and across Atlantic Canada. An employee-owned company with more than 175 engineers, scientists, technical personnel, and support staff, GEMTEC is founded on the solid technical expertise and experience of our highly educated and skilled specialists. For over 30 years, we have served our clients and the public interest with honesty and respect, while providing cost-effective and innovative solutions.

both Robert Vale and Jean-Maurice Chevarie, who successfully owned and operated Valron for the past 21 years. The firm provides structural design and related services on public and private sector building, bridge, and marine projects while also serving clients in the mining, industrial, and fishing sectors. Marine engineering includes new construction, above and below water structural evaluations, as well as wharf repair and reconstruction projects.

GEMTEC is built on a solid foundation of experience, knowledge, and integrity. Build on GEMTEC.
